Washington, Jan. 30 .- The report by Mr. Branch from the House Committee on Foreign Affairs shows strongly the advantages which would accrue to the United States by the possession of Cuba, and expresses the opinion that the native white population of the Island eagerly desire annexation. The report recommends a bill to provide for the purchase of Cuba, similar to those passed previous to the acquisition of Louisiana and California. There are various reports of the action of the Post Office at Washington. One of these is to the effect that they have it in serious contemplation to abolish the California Overland route, on account of its enormous expense. Congress will undoubtedly lop off that branch of the Post Office burdens rather than deprive themselves of the franking privilege, a luxury they have enjoyed so long that it would be like pulling their eye-teeth to take it from them. The Pacific Railroad bill came to a final vote in the United States Senate on the 27th instant, and was killed by the striking out the entire body of the bill, leaving nothing standing but a clause which had been inserted as an amendment on motion of Senator Doolittle of Wisconsin. This amendment is a very pitiful remnant of so grand a proposition, and amounts to just nothing at all, as and he recommends his views on this question, it cannot be seen that the bill will be set forward as expressed in his annual report, to favorable an inch at the next session thereby. Public opinion, however, which is moving stronger and stronger every day in favor of this great national measure, will prove an all-powerful motor when next the bill is reproduced for the action of Congress.

Besides, there is already established an English railway from Portland to Montreal. Its terminus at Portland is being filled up with English families, representatives of important Canadian and British interests. These interests the Imperial Government has declared to protect and enlarge by fair and honest means, if possible, but the possession of the State of Maine is considered so essential to the development of the projected Canadian Empire, as well as the security of the trade between it and the West Indies and Europe, that it has, I believe, been decided to take it by force, if the reasonable representations of the English Government to the Cabinet at Washington, backed by the offer of a liberal pecuniary indemnity should fail."

After all the smoke raised by Mr. Buchanan, I venture to say nothing to the point will be done. Yet, American grievances are on the increase, and no provision has been made for them. This is too bad, especially after we see what has been done by England and France. During last month, the English and French Ministers here sent orders of a violent character to their fleets at Vera Cruz, to make certain demands in favor of their subjects. Amongst other things, the Ministers took it upon themselves to remodel the Mexican tariff. Strange enough for a John Bull, an advance of 20 per cent was asked on the old outrageously high tariff. The commanders of the fleets, who are hard fisted, common-sense seamen, did not obey their Ministers' orders, and hence Vera Cruz is not now occupied by English and French horse-marines. But they seized the Vera Cruz custom-house, and have placed foreign interventors in it to look for the interests of English and French creditors, and they (the commanders) also secured the advance of 20 per cent. on the tariff asked for by the Ministers. Is this meddling with the Mexican Tariff not a species of interference not to be tolerated by the United States!

The Secretary of the Treasury has replied to a resolution calling for the actual and probable receipts from all sources, and expenses, for the fiscal year. He says the receipts during the first quarter of the present year were only $23,231,009. and for the remaining three quarters are estimated at $38,500,000, of which $37,000,000 has to come from customs. It is estimated that the pension nouncement had a depressing effect upon the Paris bill alone, which has passed the House, will add several millions to this year's expenses, and more still for the next year. As a means of revenue, he advocates the abolition of the franking privilege and the raising of the rates of postage to five cents. Should Congress adjourn without doing something to relieve the Treasury, it will be impossible to meet the current liabilities until another Congress can be convened. Although opposed to converting these notes into a permanent debt, he is in favor of extending their issue for two years.

It was reported in Washington that the conduct of the Administration upon the subject of Cuba was not properly understood, and that it had none other than the most friendly disposition toward Spain, but wishes to be prepared for any possible emergency, such as a revolution in Europe, or a general war, when the acquisition of Cuba might be a necessity for us and acceptable to Spain. If the reader thinks they are extravagantly set forth, let him consider the prodigious conquests now contemplated by the United States, under the absurd motto of "manifest destiny." We are by no means certain that flags embroidered with the words " the continent to the Isthmus," would not carry the Presidential contest of 1860, over all opposition.

The passage by the conservative branch of Congress of the thirty millions bill is now highly probable. That act of itself, investing the President and a few of his confidential advisers with an extent of power that no living people would delegate to king or autocrat, would be so wide a departure from the principles and spirit of our Constitution, that no subsequent folly or madness would excite surprise."

The Merrimac is lying at Realejo. The Decatur has been laying in the Gulf of Fonseca since the middle of January, watching for filibusters. She has her long boat on special duty, anchored under the land, with a crew fully armed and in charge of Lieut. De Haven. It seems that when the Vizen went up from here, the 1st of January, she carried a report that the Hermann was about leaving San Francisco with a load of filibusters for Nicaragua. How or where this report originated no one knows, though it is laid at the door of the British officers. It reached the ears of Commodore Long, and he at once dispatched the Decatur for the purpose of preventing the landing of the invaders, with orders to remain until the 15th February and then return to Realejo. She will then be dispatched for Panama.
